same. “Every Hanna boy is a winner—and every Hanna boy is a gift from God.”

The words belong to Father John Crews, who for 26 years has been shepherd of the Hanna flock, and it is his relationship with each and every boy that most fully defines the meaning of the place.

Find Father Crews on his daily meanders across campus, and you will find a gaggle of Hanna boys in tow. Follow him as he wanders and you’ll be serenaded by a chorus of “Fathers.”

“Mornin’, Father.” “Hey, Father.” “Yo, Padre.”

It is almost the anthem of Hanna, an invocation, a greeting, a rap that floats across
